Section 4: Location of Heritage Features

The heritage feature of the property is the dry stone wall which runs along the south (front) and west sides of the property.

Section 5: Statement of Reasons for Designation

Design and Physical Value

28 Boyd Street has design and physical value as an excellent and unique example of a late nineteenth century dry stone wall. Dry stone wall construction has been recognized by UNESCO as intangible cultural heritage of global value and was practiced primarily in agricultural areas of Kawartha Lakes in the late nineteenth century to construct farm and retaining walls. 28 Boyd Street contains an excellent and well-known example that still survives in significant form and a rare example in a non-rural setting where it has been used as a decorative landscape feature, as opposed to a utilitarian part of the agricultural landscape. It demonstrates a high degree of technical merit through its successful use of this construction method.

Historical and Associative Value

28 Boyd Street has historical and associative value in its connection to the Boyd family in Bobcaygeon. The wall was originally constructed in 1890 for W.T.C. Boyd, the son of local lumber baron Mossom Boyd as part of the landscaping for his Bobcaygeon estate, known as Edgewood. It has direct historical associations with the Boyd family, specifically W.T.C. Boyd, who was a significant figure in late nineteenth and early twentieth century Bobcaygeon for his role in the Boyd family's various commercial ventures. The property yields information about the Boyds and their influence in the village in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries through their business and civic endeavors. It also yields information regarding the evolution of landscape design, particularly with regard to estates for wealth business people, in Canada during this period which often emphasized local landscape elements and the picturesque.

Contextual Value

28 Boyd Street has contextual value as a local landmark. The dry stone wall is known and recognized throughout the community and is situated in a prominent location at the intersection of Boyd Street and County Road 36 which acts as an access point to the historic core of the village. The property is also historically linked to a number of important local features, including the Edgewood estate, the adjacent Mossom Boyd estate property, and the Boyd office located nearby on Canal Street.

Section 6: Heritage Attributes

The Reasons for Designation include the following heritage attributes and apply to all elevations, unless otherwise specified, and the roof including: all façades, entrances, windows, chimneys, and trim, together with construction materials of wood, brick, stone, stucco, concrete, plaster parging, metal, glazing, their related building techniques and landscape features.

Design and Physical Features

The architectural features of this property all demonstrate the high degree of technical achievement in the construction of the drystone wall on this property and its role as a unique and important construction type as recognized by UNESCO.

- Nineteenth-century dry stone wall
- Dry stone construction
- Double wall construction
- Limestone exterior walls
- Cope stones
- Interior hearting

Historical and Associative Features

The historical features of this property yield information on its relationship to the Boyd family and wider trends in landscape design.

- Relationship of the wall to the Edgewood/Case Manor property

Contextual Features

The contextual features of this property identify the property as a local landmark and its relationship to other Boyd properties in Bobcaygeon.

- Views to and from the wall along Boyd Street and from County Road 36
- Contextual relationship to the nearby Boyd properties, including the Mossom Boyd Estate property and Boyd Office

The modern long term care facility on this property and its associated features are not included as part of the heritage attributes of the property.
